20 small dogs available for adoption at San Luis Obispo County Animal Services

A number of rescue dogs will be the newest additions to one Central Coast animal shelter.

San Luis Obispo County Animal Services will have 20 small dogs ready for adoption starting Thursday. The shelter says during this time of year, it has enough open kennels to rescue dogs from surrounding counties.

"We found this as an actual opportune time to help our community out by bringing in some smaller breed animals that people were looking for as well as helping out our neighbors at Kern County," said Eric Anderson, Animal Services manager for San Luis Obispo County.

All dogs up for adoption will have already been vaccinated.

Woods Humane Society, also in San Luis Obispo County, took in puppies from surrounding counties as well.
